Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, October 23.

All the accounts lately received from the Continent, both by the way of Hamburgh and France, ſeem to announce that a Peace will ſoon be concluded between France and Germany, wherein the emperor, as archduke of Auſtria and king of Hungary and Bohemia, is not to be included. It appears to us, however, that this arrangement is not likely to take place, as the intereſt of the French Republic would be more committed by ſuch a peace than Auſtria. The republican armies would not be able to march to the emperor's dominions but through the territories of princes with whom in that caſe they would be at peace; and where, conſequently, they could not maintain their armies by pillage and contributions as they did in former campaigns, without the leaſt expence to France. Several of the Paris prints accordingly obſerve, "that in caſe of a renewal of the Continental War, France will certainly not make Peace with the Empire, but on conditions which ſhall not allow her to be duped by vain appearances." The emperor would alſo in that caſe no longer be obliged to keep an army on the Rhine, and might conſequently concentrate his whole force on the Danube, and in Italy. It is on theſe grounds we think it extremely improbable that a ſeparate peace will be concluded between the German Empire and the French Republic, eſpecially if the report ſhould be true, that the Northern Powers intend to oppoſe the concluſion of any partial peace.

On the other hand, the march of Ruſſian troops into Germany gives the French government, as well as the cabinet of Berlin, great uneaſineſs. Whether this march will produce any alteration in the political ſyſtem of the Pruſſian cabinet, we know not; but this is at leaſt certain, that the remonſtrances made by Pruſſia on this head, have not produced the ſuſpenſion of the march of the Ruſſians through Gallicia.

The Directory is the more alarmed at this new coalition, as the Ottoman Porte has acceded to it. The mad enthuſiaſm which the ſucceſſes of former years had inſpired in the Directory, led it fooliſhly to believe that it could perſuade the Divan that the invaſion of a vaſt province of the Turkiſh empire by a French army, would ultimately prove beneficial for the Porte. Now that it finds itſelf diſappointed as to the diſpoſition of the Turkiſh government, there is no ſtratagem which it does not employ, no humility to which it will not ſtoop, in order to check the hoſtility of the Turks. The Paris papers affect to ſuppoſe that Bontigny, the Spaniſh envoy at Conſtantinople, has obtained from the Grand Seignior the promiſe of not committing hoſtilities againſt France, until the arrival of the new ambaſſador Deſcorches. But we do not find that the embarkation of the troops deſtined to act againſt Buonaparte, has been countermanded, nor that the meaſure of arreſting all the French agents and inhabitants throughout the Turkiſh dominions is diſcontinued. On the contrary, we know, that the Grand Seignior is determined to purſue that hoſtile ſyſtem againſt the Great Nation which he has of late adopted.

The country is ſo much indebted to the enterprize and vigilance of Sir Borlaſe Warren, and his colleague Sir Edward Pellew, that however any admiral or admirals may take offence at their having ſeparate commands, no conſideration of ſuch a nature ſhould deprive the nation of ſuch officers.

Independent of the difficulties which the military conſcription meets with from the diſpoſition of the nation at large, the French Government is alſo obliged to admit of ſeveral local modifications, which, by giving relief to ſome communes, muſt over-burden others. Thus the departments of Maine and Loire, and of Ile and Vilaine, have been exempted, on account of their depopulation in conſequence of the war of the Chouans; and it will be neceſſary to adopt, for ſimilar reaſons, the ſame meaſure in regard to La Vendee and ſeveral departments in Britanny and Normandy.

The adjutant-general Collin, late commandant of the Citadel of Turin, has been ordered to Paris, and general Menard has directed all the officers, who were the authors of the late exceſſes committed at Turin, to be arreſted and conducted to fort Briancon to take their trial.

The central adminiſtration of the Rhone, has ordered four ſchools to be ſhut up, the maſters of which did not comply with the laws reſpecting the public inſtruction.

Intelligenee has been received at Amſterdam, that the Portugueſe governors of Goa and Mozambique have broken off all connection with the Iſle of France Reunion, and ſeized four French ſhips belonging to that quarter.

It appears by the laſt Paris papers, that by the overflowing of ſeveral rivers in the departments of Drome, Vaucluſe, and Gard, much miſchief has been done in that part of France, and a great part of the harveſt has been deſtroyed.

It is not extraordinary that a revolution in terms ſhould follow a revolution in politics, philoſophy, and morality. It appears from the Raſtadt conferences, that a concluſum means the commencement of a negociation.

Nothing could be more natural than Sir John Warren's concluſion that the brig which ran away in the beginning of the action off Tory Iſland, had the gallant Napper Tandy on board.

Every tenth day in France, is now a day of revelry and relaxation. The buſineſs of the merchant, manufacturer, and mechanic is thus bounded by the very exhiliarating term—DECAYD.

Although the French reject the authority of the Bible, yet, if we may judge by a late decree, their ſalvatian depends on the book of Numbers.

The gallant Nelſon has obtained the Freedom of our principal Corporations by courteſy;—but that of the Houſe of Peers by ſervice.

France has it ſtill in contemplation to make a cut acroſs the Iſthmus of Suez, which in imitation of the Engliſh, is to be called The Grand Junction Canal.

NEW-LONDON February 13.

Arrived, ſchr. Polly, Benjamin, from Guadaloupe; had been taken and condemned. Came paſſenger Capt. Charles Hazard who has favored us with a printed copy of the following Letter, publiſhed at Guadaloupe in French and Engliſh and diſtributed in great profuſion thro' that Iſland.

LIBERTY EQUALITY.
AGENCY of GUADALOUPE

CONSTITUTION, Art. 156.

"The particular Agents will exerciſe "the ſame functions as the Directory, "and will be under their direction."

Baſſe Terre, Guadaloupe, Frimaire the 25th. Dec. the 15th.

The particular Agent of the Executive Directory for Guadaloupe and its Dependencies, to

JOHN ADAMS.
Preſident of the U. States of America

SIR,

ARRIVED at the poſt intruſted to me by the Executive Directory, I think proper to inform you of the diſpoſitions of the French Directory, towards the Neutrals and Allies, of which America is a part.

You will find them mentioned in the Decree of the 18th of Thermidor laſt (12th Auguſt) the copy of which I add to this.

The privateers fitted out in the ports of Guadaloupe, ſhall cruiſe againſt all the enemies of the Republic, but ſhall pay every regard to Allies and Neutrals who ſhall not be found in contravention with the laws reſpecting them.

The citizens of the United States may come, and exchange their produce for the productions of the iſland of Guadaloupe. They will diſpoſe of their property freely. The laws will protect them, and will puniſh with rigor whoever ſhall dare to infringe them, or to ſuſpend their effect.

I hope that many proofs of the loyalty which will never ceaſe to be the character of my actions, will be ſufficient to reſtore the confidence and connections mutually uſeful.

I left France the 7th of Vendemaire laſt. (28th, Sept.) with a diviſion. The 16th of the ſame month, being in lat. 36 d. 16 m. long. 21 35. the commodore of the diviſion ſpoke the American veſſel Arianna, Capt. Daniel Prior, belonging to Joſeph and John Dorr, citizens of the United States, merchants in Boſtor.

The papers and eſpecially the role of equipage being in proper order, the whole proving to be American property, the veſſel was releaſed. It was alſo offered the captain, that if he would follow till day light the veſſels of the diviſion, they would give him a ſpar to repair his fore-top-maſt, carried, away in a ſtorm. The veſſels of the diviſion ſhortened ſail to let the American keep up, but whether the veſſel could not keep way, or the captain thought proper to change his courſe, we loſt ſight of him.

The 30th Brumaire laſt (20th October) being to windward and in ſight of the Iſland Deſirade, we perceived four veſſels of war, ſailing for us, being ſo cloſe that we could plainly diſtinguiſh them hoiſt Engliſh colors. At the inſt. the order was given to chace them, but immidiately they tacked about, and ſtood from us.

The frigate l'Inſurgente having overtaken the ſchooner Retaliation, commanded by Lieut. Bainbridge, we were convinced the veſſels chaced, were Americans.

The neceſſity of arriving at our deſtination, and to avoid the purſuit of the Engliſh forces ſuperior to ours, of which we had knowledge, every thing prevented me from taking a true view of our ſituation with the United States. In conſequence, I gave orders for the ſchooner to follow the diviſion.

After having ſpent the firſt moments to make my powers known, I occupied myſelf with the affairs of the Retaliation; and if circumſtances and political reaſons had not obliged me to lay an embargo I ſhould immediately have let her gone to the United States.

Theſe obſtacles do not now exiſt. I leave lieutenant Bainbridge at liberty to ſail for the United States, giving him the charge of the packets for you, and recommending him to make his way with the veſſels in which I ſend back all the American citizens made priſoners before my arrival in this iſland.

I conclude ſir, in repeating to you that, the citizens of the United States, will be conſidered and treated like allies; that in every circumſtance they will obtain juſtice, and will be well received.

Receive the aſſurance of my conſideration.

Signed, DESFOURNEAUX.

Capt. Charles Hazard, of this port came paſſenger in Capt. B.—he was taken on his paſſage out, carried into Guadaloupe, and condemned without being queſtioned where from, or where bound; 15 days after Desfourneaux's letter was made public.

Capt. Bainbridge in the Retaliation, was daily expected to ſail, (when Capt. B. left Guadaloupe,) in company with two cartels, with all the American priſoners remaining at Guadaloupe.

Capt. B's men were kept in irons 36 hours. The Americans, captains and people, are confined in the moſt loathſome priſon at Baſſeterre, among negroes condemned for all kinds of crimes; and kept on half a pound of bread and a quarter of a pound of fiſh per day; and in every reſpect treated much worſe than the Engliſh priſoners.

Mr. John Clark, 2d mate, and Elijah Roath, ſeaman, belonging to Capt. Benjamin's veſſel, were impreſſed on board La Penſe, a French frigate, bound to France; 56 other Americans were impreſſed on board his ſhip at Point Petre and Baſſeterre. Petitions in their favor had no effect.

La Penſe frigate, in Victor Hughes was ſent to France, ſailed from Baſſeterre during a dark ſtormy night, and eluded the vigilance of the Engliſh ſhips which blockaded the port. The embargo was next day taken off.

Beef ſold at Guadaloupe for 24 dollars per bbl. fiſh at 16 dols. per quintal; great diſcontent prevailed there; produce in large quantities lying on hand, and no purchaſers. The letter from Desfourneaux was ſuppoſed to be a mere expedient to quiet the murmurs of the populace.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 18.

Extract of a letter from Connecticut, dated February 11th, 1799.

"PARSON OGDEN, one of the Editors of the Aurora, is impriſoned in Litchfield for debt. He has the liberty of the yard, and Ephraim Kirby, Eſq. is his bondſman. The ſame Ephraim Kirby, Eſq. has been ſedulouſly circulating the above Parſon Ogden's vile publications, accompanied with billets in his (Kirby's) hand-writing and ſignature, recommending them to his friends, as works highly meritorious and well worth their peruſal. The parſon, in return, is damning KIRBY to everlaſting fame in the AURORA. Thus you ſee a reciprocity of good ſervices takes place between theſe two martyrs to Jacobiniſm, and for what motives the world will judge. Should the Parſon, in the true ſpirit of his principles, take the liberty of the yard and go back to Philadelphia, who would not laugh? The preſent mail carries letters from the ſame Parſon Ogden to Meſſrs. JEFFERSON, Gallatin, Nicholas, &c.—for his hand-writing is well known."

The Aurora of Saturday morning ſays that Ogden "has ſuffered with General Wooſter's widow in the wreck of her affairs." The fact is Ogden has been always an idle vicious ſpendthrift, and as long as the worthy old lady could be affected by his acts "the wreck of her affairs" was much owing to him. This fellow's excellent wife has maintained herſelf and her family by her ſevere labour and œconomy for many years paſt, while he never goes home but to plunder her of any little ſaving ſhe may have made. It is right the Aurora ſhould uphold a character that is deſpiſed and blaſted among all honeſt men. Ogden is not ſuffered to enter the company of GENTLEMEN where he is known; and the Epiſcopalian clergymen of Connecticut will not ſuffer him to enter their pulpits at all.

MR. FENNO,

I am informed the agent lately arrived from guadaloupe, has declared ſince his arrival in this city, that the Iſabella and Ann, and another American veſſel carried into that iſland were not condemned, but that the Government had taken their cargoes at liberal prices to be paid in colonial produce.

As a proof that the diplomatic ſkill which governs all the departments and agencies of the terrible Republic has been in the preſent inſtance diſplayed, I annex a ſhort extract from the proteſt of Captain Duer, of the Iſabella and Ann, which with his condemnation was lodged this day at the Inſurance Office of North America.

"Captain Duer ſets forth that when taken by the privateer Democrat he was plundered of almoſt every thing, and by the prize-maſter of his quadrant, wearing apparel, &c. That he aſked the captain of the Democrat, his reaſons for thus plundering his veſſel, without knowing whether he would be condemned or not—he anſwered it was none of my buſineſs, that I was a priſoner on board, and he would do as he pleaſed, adding that he had orders from France to capture all American veſſels he came acroſs, and that there would be a war commenced with France and the United States of America."

LEGISLATURE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, FEB. 11.

In the Senate, on Friday laſt, the committee to whom was referred the report of the joint committee, in anſwer to the diſorganizing reſolutions of Virginia and Kentucky, made their report, which contained additional reaſons in ſupport of the conſtitutionality of the alien and ſedition laws of the United States. Theſe reaſons were adopted by way of amendment to the original report, and upon the queſtion Shall the original report paſs, as now amended? The Yeas and Nays were as follows: YEAS, Hon. Meſſrs. Phillips, Bridge, Sexton, Fowler, Dane, Thompſon, Campbell, Thayer, T. Davis, Reed, Bullard, Long, Fellow, Towne, Jones, Hayward, D. Davis, Dwight, Norris, Bingham, Thacher, Hunt, Taft, Bigelow, Hale, Dummer, and Coffin. NAYS, Meſſrs. Bacon and Wells.

In juſtice to the Hon. Mr. Wells, it muſt be obſerved, that he was not oppoſed to the ſpirit of the meaſure; but objected to the propriety of the following ſentence, in the report.

"This legiſlature are perſuaded that the deciſion of caſes ariſing under the Conſtitution of the United States, and the conſtruction of the Conſtitution, and of all laws made in purſuance thereof, are excluſively veſted by the people in the judicial courts of the United States."

On Saturday it was moved to reconſider the report, and the ſubſequent amendment of the above ſentence was propoſed, viz.

That this legiſlature are perſuaded that the deciſion of caſes in law and equity, ariſing under the Conſtitution of the United States, and the conſtruction of all laws made, in purſuance thereof, are excluſively veſted by the people in the judicial courts of the United States.

With this amendment, the queſtion was again called, and paſſed, with but one diſſentient—Mr. Bacon ſtanding alone in the negative.

DIED.]—yeſterday, Mrs. ANTHONY, relict of the late Mr. Joſeph Anthony, Merchant, of this City.

LEGISLATURE OF NEW-YORK.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.
Thurſday, February 7.

Mr. Swartwout gave notice, that on Tueſday next he would move the following recital and reſolution

Whereas, great inconveniences are experienced by the good people of this ſtate, by reaſon of the diſtricts being ſo extenſive, that it is impoſſible for the people to have a ſufficient knowledge of characters, who are, from time to time, held up as candidates for ſeats in the Senate of this State: And whereas the preſent law for appointing electors for electing of Preſident and Vice-Preſident of the United States of America, appears (by the preamble) to have been intended as a temporary arrangement, until the legiſlature could make proviſion to authoriſe the people to chooſe ſaid electors. Therefore,

Reſolved, That a committee of be appointed to prepare and report a bill to ſubdivide the four great diſtricts of this ſtate into as many diſtricts as there are Senators; alſo to divide this State into as many diſtricts as there are electors to be choſen, ſo that each diſtrict ſhall chooſe one elector for electing a Preſident and Vice Preſident of the United States of America.

Friday, February 8.

The reſolutions from the Legiſlature of New-Hampſhire, reſpecting amendments to the federal conſtitution, paſſed the Senate, Meſs. L'Hommedieu, T. Morris, I. Schenck, Tappen and Tillotson, only voting in the negative.
